

Greek Mercenary

Each soldier in Ancient Greece paid for their own armour and weapons. Not all of them could afford swords and armour and these men fought with slings for shooting stones and simple wooden spears. A mercenary would fight for anyone that would pay them.

