

Quetzalcoatl Aztec God

Quetzalcoatl is the God of wind and wisdom. The name Quetzalcoatl can be translated as precious serpent or feathered serpent. Legend says that the world was created four times, before each time being destroyed. Quetzalcoatl then collected human bones and added his own blood to create the first humans of the fifth age. He was therefore known as a Creator God. It was said that he opposed human sacrifice.

